Several prominent people, including a number of M.P.s, yesterday received an unsigned document purporting to come from an organisation called the "People Liberation Front of Kenya". It accused the Government of, among other things, corruption, nepotism and tribalism.

Of the M.P.s who received it some blamed it on Communist influence and others on the C.I.A. Some said they had not received it because, they believed, their political views did not suit the writers of the document.

A K.P.U. Member, Mr. M. Ondiek-Chillo, described the document as "serious" and one of his colleagues, Mr. T. Okelo-Odongo, later made an unsuccessful attempt to raise the matter in the National Assembly.

A Kanu M.P., Mr. G. G. Kago, told the East African Standard that the writers were cowards because they had not disclosed their names. He said their statements were untrue.

The document, which was cyclostyled, was posted in Yala, Nyamira, and addressed by hand. It contained a number of unsubstantiated allegations, some of which were factually unsound. Apart from a general attack on the Government it contained bitter criticism of former "loyalist" Kikuyu, many of whom, it said, were now enjoying high positions at the expense of those who had fought for independence.

It would not matter that most of the senior posts in Kenya were held by "those who really and actively participated in the struggle", the document said, but instead they had been given to "Home Guards".

Members of other tribes had been lucky to be promoted before the "Kikuyu Operation Take Over", but otherwise jobs for which there was no Kikuyu available were held by "repatriates". M.P.s who were aware of this were afraid to speak out in case they were detained without trial.

It is understood that investigations are being made into the document. It is impossible to quote fully from it because of the laws of sedition and libel.
